FreeDialup.org Response to Claims of Copyright Infringement

When FreeDialup.org or its companies receives a copyright infringement claim involving music, video, software, or other digital materials, it takes the following steps under the 1998 federal statute known as the Digital Millennium Copyright Act or DMCA:

- we check usage logs to examine the system alleged to be involved in copyright infringement and we identify the phone number the call came from as identified in the caller-id field;
- we suspend the phone number's capability of connecting to FreeDialup.org modem pools;
- we notify the copyright holder (or agent) that we are handling the infringement claim under the guidelines of the DMCA;
- we DO NOT disclose the user's phone number;
- since we do not know the user's identity, we can not notify the user however we post the Copyright Infringement message on our forums section as a notice.
